There are but few moments in life when the slightest whiff or sip of a libation causes one to pause a moment and thank their lucky stars they're a beer drinker. We like to think Old Jetty Barleywine fits that bill. Its strength is only surpassed by not just its beauty, but also the true craftsmanship behind it. And while maturing in a barrel for twelve months may seem like an eternity to the eager, as El Segundo's most awarded beer, this little known show-stopper is not only worth the wait, but makes you consider, perhaps, perfection can be achieved.
